TABLE OF CONTENTS

Foreword

Foreword ...................................................................................................................................................... i

Introduction

Introduction ............................................................................................................................................... iii

Part One: The Corporations of Washington and Georgetown (1791-1871)

1

Chapter 1: Farm Animals

Farm Animals.............................................................................................................................................. 3

Summary of laws (Colonial-era – Georgetown – City of Washington) – Narrative

Chapter 2: Dogs

Dogs......................................................................................................................................................... 10

Summary of laws (Georgetown – City of Washington – Country of Washington) – Narrative

Chapter 3: The Corporation Pound

The Corporation Pound......................................................................................................................... 16

William M. Simaker – A proposed dog-pound

Chapter 4: Cruelty to Animals

Cruelty to Animals................................................................................................................................. 19

Summary of laws (City of Washington – Georgetown)

Chapter 5: Summary

Summary.................................................................................................................................................. 21

Chapter 6: Dead Animals

Dead Animals...................................................................................................................................... 22

Georgetown – City of Washington – County of Washington

Illustrations:

Illustrations: One Hundred Years of Advertising Found Animals
Early Legal Notices

Part Two: The Territorial and Early Commissioner Period (1871-1912)

27

Chapter 7: The Contractor Pound

The Contractor Pound.......................................................................................................................... 29

Chapter 8: Samuel Einstein

Samuel Einstein .................................................................................................................................... 37

Chapter 9: Legalities of the Pound Operations

Legalities of the Pound Operations........................................................................................................ 40

Farm animals – Dogs – Jurisdiction – Things the pound didn’t do

Chapter 10: Corralling the Population of Farm Animals

Corralling the Population of Farm Animals....................................................................................... 44

Early trials – Success – Chickens

Chapter 11: The Dog War

The Dog War....................................................................................................................................... 49

Chapter 21  The Washington Humane Society (Continued).............................................................................................169

Funding/Membership – Finding new issues – John P. Heap – WHS’s Time of Troubles

Chapter 22  The Early Shelter Movement.......................................................................................................................173

Shelter vs. pound – Legalities – Cat shelters (Barber Refuge for Animals – Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Buckley – WHS’s replacement shelter – Sarah L. Beckley – Mrs. Beckley’s cat shelter – The Friendly Hand Society) – Dog shelters (Society for Friendless Dogs)

Chapter 23  The Washington Animal Rescue League ......................................................................................................179

Chapter 24  Later Humane Organizations .......................................................................................................................197

Chapter 25  Summary .....................................................................................................................................................207

Chapter 26  Dead Animals........................................................................................................................................208

The District takes over the service

Illustrations:  Cat Shelters
WARL in the News
The WARL Shelter
Personages
Secondary Shelters

Afterword: What Happened to Them All ............................................................................................................................217

Illustrations:  The Facilities Today

Appendix A: Basics of District of Columbia History .....................................................................................................226

Appendix B: Laws Relating to Animal Control ................................................................................................................230
Appendix C: Statistical Complications ................................................................. 248

C1: Farms and Farm Animals in the District of Columbia
C2: Complaints Regarding Hogs, Cows and Fowl
C3: Animal Capture Statistics
C4: Dog Tax Receipts, Pound Income (“Pound Fees”), and Pound Expenses
C5: Animal-Related Arrests/Prosecutions
C6: Cases of/Deaths from Rabies
C7: Animal Cruelty Statistics
C8: Animals in Shelters
C9: Collection of Dead Animals

Appendix D: Textual and Other Materials .............................................................. 285

D1: Board of Health Minutes Regarding Animals and the Pound, 1822-78
D2: Good Newspaper Profiles of the Pound and Its Operations/of WHS Operations/of the WARL Shelter/of the HES Shelter
D3: Pictures of the Dog Hunt (The Epic of the Raid – Boys vs. Dog-Catchers – Chatter Among the Poundmen)
D4: The District Pound Compared with Those of Other Cities
D5: Citizens Write MPDC About Dogs
D6: The Mythical Origin of Washington’s Stray Animals
D7: Mark Twain Lampoons the Animal Problem in Washington
D8: Washington Cats Immortalized (?) in Poetry
D9: Samples of Cases Handled by SPCA/WHS Agents
D10: Mrs. Beckley and Her Cat Shelter
D11: The WARL Shelter Compared with the Pound
D12: U.S. Capitol Police Deal with Critters (and Humans)
D14: Sources for Further Research

Bibliography ............................................................................................................. 320

Notes on Sources ...................................................................................................... 328