Dear Simon:

This letter is to confirm our agreement regarding the withdrawal of the proxy proposal Franklin Research and Development has co-filed on the humane treatment of animals.

You will withdraw your proposal in return for McDonald's agreement to:

1. Mail a copy of our policy statement on the humane treatment of animals (copy attached) to all of our meat and poultry suppliers, and request they forward this statement to their primary suppliers.
2. Print an excerpt of the enclosed humane treatment of animals statement in McDonald's 1993 Annual Report. As space is a consideration in the Annual Report, the statement will be condensed; the current draft reads as follows:

"McDonald's believes the humane treatment of animals is a moral responsibility. We require suppliers to adhere to pertinent laws, regulations, and industry guidelines concerning the humane treatment of animals, such as those recommended by the American Meat Institute. Additionally, suppliers should take all reasonable steps to assure animals raised, transported, and slaughtered for McDonald's products are treated humanely. We also require suppliers to provide an annual statement as to their compliance."

I understand that upon receipt of this letter, the proponents will initiate withdrawal of the proposal on the humane treatment of animals. Of course, we will not proceed with the actions described in this letter without the withdrawal of the proposal.

Sincerely
