

Celebrating Animals

YOUR BEST SHOT

Do you have an inspiring

photo of a favorite pet or wild animal? Send it to us for possible publication in All Animals, along with an explanation of 150 words or fewer about why it's meaningful to you. Photos should be at least 300 dpi at a size of 5-by-7" and at least 2 MB.

To upload your photo and information, visit humansociety.org/yourbestshot.

Send hard copy submissions to All Animals—Your Best Shot, The HSUS, 2100 L St., N.W., Washington, DC 20037.

(Hard copies cannot be returned.)

Maya Restis' husband once found her love for pet rats to be her only flaw. But then he came to know them as social and gentle companions; Kaba, meaning "hippo" in Japanese, would even visit the farmers market while perched on Restis' shoulder. At home, Kaba enjoyed a roomy habitat with five rat friends, plus a table that afforded the pack a place to explore. She would sit at the edge, cross her paws, and watch Restis work around the house. When Restis approached, Kaba would rise up on her hind legs and present her friend with kisses. At more than 3 years old—ancient for a rat—Kaba died while resting quietly in Restis' arms.

— Ruthanne Johnson

MAYA RESTIS