

BIBLIOGRAPHY

The annotated bibliography given here is composed of the more pertinent reference material which bears specifically on the subject. The selections are arranged alphabetically by authors' names. In the case of magazine articles when the name of the author is omitted the selections are arranged alphabetically according to title.

"American Humane Education Society." Our Dumb Animals, Vol. 73, No. 3 (March, 1940), pp. 44,48.

A report of the activities of the society's field workers.

"Amrita Island." Our Fourfooted Friends, Vol. 37, No. 2 (May, 1940), pp. 18-19, 23.

An account of the 1940 program of the Amrita Island Summer School.

"Amrita Island Conference." National Humane Review, Vol. XXVIII, No. 10 (October, 1940), p. 5.

A report of the number of persons attempting the conference and the number of states represented.

"Amrita Island Summer Conference." Our Fourfooted Friends, Vol. 36, No. 2 (May, 1939), p. 15.

A description of the program and activities carried on at the Amrita Island School.

Angell, George T. Address to the Boston Public Schools. Educational Leaflet. Boston: American Humane Education Society, undated. 20 pp.

An account of the founding of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and of several of Mr. Angell's experiences during the first years of its existence.

Angell, George T. Autobiographical Sketches and Personal Recollections. Boston: American Humane Education Society, undated. 114 pp.

A description of Angell's experiences and activities in humane work.

Boyd, L. A. "As the Twig is Bent." Our Dumb Animals, Vol. 73, No. 6 (June, 1940), p. 94.

An account of the activities of a high school civics class in compiling a resume of the humane laws of the state of Michigan.

"Building for Service." National Humane Review, Vol. XXIX, No. 9 (September, 1941), pp. 14-15.

A description of the Wisconsin Humane Society's new shelter and an account of the society's activities.

Character Education Through Kindness, Public Education Service Circular. Providence, Rhode Island. 1932. 24 pp.

A presentation of the broad aims of humane education together with suggestions for teaching humane lessons.

Clarke, Frances E. Lessons in Teaching Humane Education. American Humane Association Bulletins Nos. 1, 2, 3. Albany, New York: The William O. Stillman Foundation for Humane Education, 1926. 165 pp.

Three booklets containing a series of units suitable for teaching lessons in humane education.

Coleman, Sydney H. "The American Humane Association Looks Ahead." National Humane Review, Vol. XXVIII, No. 10 (October, 1940), pp. 2-5.

A brief account of some of the achievements made in humane work and some suggestions as to the fields in which the humane societies should center their future activities.

Coleman, Sydney H. Humane Society Leaders in America. Albany, New York: American Humane Association, 1924. 270 pp.

Historical sketches of the work of early humane workers and a description of the societies as they were formed by these workers.

"Convention Plans Mature." National Humane Review, Vol. XXVIII, No. 7 (July, 1940), p. 28.

An account of the activities carried on at the annual meetings of the American Humane Association.

Craven, Richard C. "Amrita Island and the Future." National Humane Review, Vol. XXV, No. 9 (September, 1937), pp. 3-4.

An account of the establishment of the Amrita Island Summer School and a statement of its aims and objectives.

Craven, Richard C. "Orchids for Three Societies." National Humane Review, Vol. XXVIII, No. 8 (August, 1940), p. 25.

A description of the activities of the Seattle, Portland, and Medford humane societies.

Craven, Marguerite C. "As the Twig is Bent." Our Fourfooted Friends, Vol. 35, No. 3 (August, 1938), pp. 22-23.

A report of a school celebration of "Be Kind to Animals Week" showing the correlation of humane education with the other subjects of the curriculum.

Dickson, Julia E. "A Functional Program of Humane Education through the Elementary School Years." National Humane Review, Vol. XXVIII, No. 9 (September, 1940), pp. 19-20.

A description of ways in which humane ideas can motivate school work.

Dickson, Julia E. "Amrita Island." Our Fourfooted Friends, Vol. 38, No. 2 (May, 1941), pp. 10-13, 17.

A statement of the aims of the Amrita Island Summer School and a description of the lectures and courses given.

Dickson, Julia E. The Place of Humane Education in the Total Educational Program. Educational Service Quarterly, Vol. 6; No. 2. Boston: The Alpha Circle of the City of Boston, 1941. 6 pp.

An argument for the integration of humane education with other school subjects and suggestions as to how it can be done.

Foeley, C. Virginia. "Humane Education." Our Fourfooted Friends, Vol. 36, No. 1 (February, 1939), pp. 10-11.

A statement of the educational program of the Boston Animal Rescue League and a report of the number of schools visited and school children reached by this program.

Foeley, C. Virginia, and Phillips, B. Maude. "Humane Education." Our Fourfooted Friends, Vol. 37, No. 2 (May, 1940), pp. 21-22.

A description of some of the marionette plays used by the Boston League to teach humane lessons.

Freerksen, Alma S. "A First Grade Studies Pets." National Humane Review, Vol. XXX, No. 2 (February, 1942), pp. 18-20.

An account of the teaching of humane lessons in the primary grades through experience units based on the study of pets.

French, Marie. "Fifty Years of Humane Service." National Humane Review, Vol. XXIX, No. 8 (August, 1941), pp. 13-14.

An account of the history of the Humane Society of St. Joseph and Buchanan Country, New York, and a report of its expanding activities.

"From Our Field Correspondents." National Humane Review, Vol. XXVIII, No. 8 (August, 1940), p. 24.

A description of the summer program carried on by the humane education department of the Whatcom Humane Society of Washington.

"Future of Amrita Island." Our Fourfooted Friends, Vol. 36, No. 3 (Fall Issue, 1939), pp. 18-22.

A discussion of the need for a school to train humane workers and the results which can be expected from such a school.

The Horse, Suggestions on Its Care. American Humane Association Leaflet, No. 213. Albany, New York: The American Humane Association, undated. 2 pp.

A list of rules for owners of horses.

Holway, Edith M. "Daily Experiences in the Third Grade which Contribute to Humane Education." Educational Extension Service, Vol. III, No. 1. Boston: The Alpha Circle of the City of Boston, February, 1941. 8 pp.

A presentation of various units of work based upon animals and designed to carry out the aims of humane education.

"How Far Does It Reach?" Our Dumb Animals, Vol. 73, No. 6 (June, 1940), p. 83.

A report of the extent of the activities of the American Humane Education Society.

Humane and Moral Instruction in the Public Schools. Albany, New York: The American Humane Association, undated. 4 pp.

A copy of the report adopted by the Chicago school board giving an outline for humane education in the schools, accompanied by a list of books and periodicals furnishing material adapted to such instruction.

The Humane Bulletin. American Humane Education Society Bulletin. Boston: American Humane Education Society, 1929. 95 pp.

A booklet containing a variety of suggestions for teachers as a help in correlating humane education with other subjects.

“Humane Education Exhibit in Washington.” National Humane Review, Vol. XXX, No. 2 (February, 1942), p. 26.

An account of an exhibit of humane literature and of a panel discussion on humane education sponsored by the Whatcom County Humane Society.

“Humane Poster Contest.” National Humane Review, Vol. XXVIII, No. 8 (August, 1940), pp. 16-17.

A report of the extent of the poster contest of the American Humane Association and of the lessons taught by this means.

“Humane Traps; Trapping Problem Nears Solution.” National Humane Review, Vol. XXIX, No. 7 (July, 1941), pp. 4-5.

An account of the progress made in bringing about more humane methods of trapping as a result of the American Humane Association humane trap contests.

“Humane Trap Contests.” National Humane Review, Vol. XXVIII, No. 7 (July, 1940), pp. 3-5.

An account of the success of the trap contest program carried on by the American Humane Association.

"Influence of the Band of Mercy." Our Dumb Animals, Vol. 69, No. 3 (March, 1936), p. 25.

A report of the spread of the Band of Mercy movement.

Kenniston, Ida. Outlines of Study in Humane Literature. Educational Leaflet. Boston: American Humane Education Society, undated. 8 pp.

Suggestions for the use of teachers in the public schools.

“Kindness Week, 1941.” National Humane Review. Vol. XXIX, No. 6 (June, 1941), pp. 4-5, 9, 12-15, 21-23, 28.

A report of the activities carried on by the humane societies in the various states during “Be Kind to Animals” week.

Maloney, Mary G. Humane Education and Its Function in the Life of the Young Child. Educational Extension Service, Vol. III, No. 2. Boston: The Alpha Circle of the City of Boston, March, 1941. 23 pp.

A brief discussion of the meaning of humane education; also, example units of learning in humane education for use in the grades.

Maloney, Mary G. “Some First Grade Experiences in Humane Education.” National Humane Review, Vol. XXVIII, No. 10 (October, 1940), pp. 18-20.

A description of ways in which humane education can be fostered through the teaching of a pet unit to small children.

McCrea, Roswell C. The Humane Movement, a Descriptive Survey. New York: Columbia University Press, 1910. 431 pp.

A thoroughgoing study of the beginning and development of the humane movement in the United States.

McLean, Mary E. “Educative Experiences in Nature for Little Children.” Educational Extension Service, Vol. II, No. 4. Boston: The Alpha Circle of the City of Boston, December, 1938. 5 pp.

A statement of the importance of nature study as a means of fostering worthwhile attitudes in the school child.

McSpadden, Warren W. “How Can Humane Education Keep Alive Children’s Sensibilities?” Naitonal Humane Review, Vol. XXIX, No. 9 (September, 1941), pp. 18-20.

A presentation of the author's opinion that humane education is one of the most important influences brought to bear on the child that will foster such principles as justice, fair play and kindness.

McSpadden, Warren W. "Teaching Dog Care to Boy Scouts." National Humane Review, Vol. XXIX, No. 6 (June, 1941), pp. 18-20.

An account of a course in dog care given to the boy scouts of New York by the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

McSpadden, Warren W. "What Shall We Do for Be Kind To Animals Week?" National Humane Review, Vol. XXX, No. 4 (April, 1942), pp. 18-21.

Suggested projects for school children centering around the making of useful articles for pet animals.

"Our Contests." National Humane Review. Vol. XXVIII, No. 8 (August, 1940), p. 14.

A statement to the effect that contests are very important as a means of fostering humane education.

"Our Films." Our Dumb Animals. Vol. 69, No. 3 (March, 1936), p. 43.

A statistical report showing the demand for films from the American Humane Education Society.

"Our New Buildings." Our Dumb Animals. Vol. 36, No. 2 (January, 1939), p. 9.

A description of the center which is being opened by the Humane Education Department of the Boston Animal Rescue League.

Penshaw, Mary. T. "Humane Education through Pet Animal Experiences." National Humane Review, Vol. XXIX, No. 2 (February, 1941), pp. 18-21.

An account of the author's experiences as a humane worker in the schools; the importance of first hand experiences with animals in fostering attitudes of responsibility, kindness, and consideration is stressed.

Phillips, B. Maude. "Contributions of Marionette Plays to the Teaching of Humane Education." National Humane Review, Vol. XXIX, No. 5 (May, 1941), pp. 18-20.

A description of the use made of marionettes in the educational program of the Boston Animal Rescue League and an evaluation of the medium as a means of fostering humane education.

Phillips, B. Maude. "Humane Education." Our Fourfooted Friends, Vol. 37, No. 3 (August, 1938), pp. 14-16.

An account of the activities of a school humane club.

Phillips, B. Maude. "Humane Education." Our Fourfooted Friends, Vol. 37, No. 3 (August, 1938), pp. 30-31.

A discussion of the beneficial effect which teaching the child about animals has on the character of the child.

Phillips, B. Maude. "Humane Education." Our Fourfooted Friends, Vol. 38, No. 2 (May, 1941), pp. 6-7, 17.

An account of the achievements in the humane field brought about by humane education and a discussion as to where humane education will be most valuable in the future.

"Poster Contest." National Humane Review, Vol. XXIX, No. 3 (August 1941), p. 17.

A statement that the results of the American Humane Association annual poster contests show an increasing interest in and understanding of humane work.

Preston, H. C. New Conception of Humane Education. Educational Leaflet, No. 190. Albany, New York: American Humane Association, undated. 2 pp.

A statement of the author's opinion that humane education is more concerned with the welfare of the child than with the well being of the animal.

Radio Addresses. Educational Leaflet. Oakland, California: The Latham Foundation for the Promotion of Humane Education, undated. 13 pp.

The opinion of several prominent teachers and educators as to the value or worth of humane education.

Reynolds, Harriet C. Thoughts on Humane Education. Washington, D. C.: Humane Publishing Company, 1919. 200 pp.

A statement of the need and importance of humane education with suggestions for teachers and humane workers.

Rowley, Francis H. A Great Prophecy. Boston: American Humane Education Society, undated. 7 pp.

A presentation of the broad aims of humane education, namely, the cultivation of kindness, justice, mercy, etc.

Rowley, Francis H. Humane Education: An Activity of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. Boston: American Humane Education Society, undated. 11 pp.

A discussion of the relationship between the American Humane Education Society and the Parent-Teachers Association.

Rowley, Francis H. Humane Education, the Vital Need. Boston: American Humane Education Society, undated. 2 pp.

A presentation of the idea that the great need of the schools is humane education, a deeper culture of the things that make for character.

Rowley, Francis H. The Humane Idea. Boston: American Humane Education Society, 1912. 72 pp.

A study of man's attitude towards animals and the development of the humane feeling towards animals into organized societies.

Rowley, Francis H. The Teacher's Helper in Humane Education. Boston: American Humane Education Society, 1935. 32 pp.

Suggestions for teachers interested in humane education.

Schnelle, G. B. "The Angell Memorial Hospital." Our Dumb Animals. Vol. 73, No. 7 (July, 1940), pp. 102-103.

A report of the functions of an animal hospital.

Sedgwick, Virginia. "Teaching Humane Education to the Primary Grades." National Humane Review. Vol. XXX, No. 1 (January, 1942), pp. 18-20.

An account of the program offered the schools by the Humane Education Department of the Chicago Anti-Cruelty Society.

Shultz, William J. The Humane Movement in the United States. New York: Columbia University Press, 1924. 306 pp.

A study of the developments in humane work between 1910 and 1922.

Skipper, Edward N. "Activities of Field Secretary." Animaldom. Vol. X, No. 6 (May, 1940). p. 3.

A report of Mr. Skipper's work in the schools of Pennsylvania.

Smith, Anna Harris. The Need for Properly Conducted Shelters. Boston: Animal Rescue League, undated. 8 pp.

A survey of the conditions making an animal shelter necessary and an account of the activities of such an organization.

Smith, Anna Harris. What Humane Societies are For. Boston: Animal Rescue League, 1927. 8 pp.

An account of the activities of the Animal Rescue League, its shelter, rest farm, and cemetery.

Smith, Effie E. Humane Education, A Vital Value in Training Our Youth. Educational Leaflet, No. 505. Albany, New York: American Humane Association, 1942. 3 pp.

A description of a school humane club and an evaluation of the club as a means of developing the character of the children.

Smith, Effie E. Humane Education, Its Relation to World Friendship. Boston: American Humane Education Society, undated. 2 pp.

An expression of the belief that humane education fosters those sentiments that will lead to the development of good character.

Steinke, Herbert A. Poster Contests. Educational Leaflet, No. 507. Albany, New York: American Humane Association, 1942. 3 pp.

A statement of the importance of poster contests as a means of fostering humane education.

Strutt, Joseph. Sports and Pastimes of the People of England. London, 1856. pp. 241-242.

An account of the brutality of many of the sports and amusements of the English people.

Sullivan, Mary G. We Went to the Park. Educational Leaflet, No. 503. Albany, New York: American Humane Association, 1942. 3 pp.

An account of a unit of school work built around nature study and having for its aim the development of the child's character.

"Teaching the Youngsters." National Humane Review. Vol. XXIX, No. 8 (August, 1941), p. 25.

A description of the humane education program carried on by the Wisconsin Humane Society in cooperation with summer camps.

Valentine, Zula M. The Organization and Value of Junior Humane Societies. Educational Leaflet, No. 186. Albany, New York: American Humane Association, undated. 4 pp.

A report of the junior humane societies organized in Indiana and an evaluation of the results of these organizations.

What is Humane Education? Educational Leaflet. Providence, Rhode Island: Rhode Island Humane Education Society, 1936. 4 pp.

An expression of the belief that the aims of humane education are the building of character and the awakening of noble instincts.

"What We Do." The Humane Endeavor. 4th Issue (July, 1940), p. 37.

A report of the activities carried on by the Humane Society of Baltimore County, Maryland.

"Wist Ye Not - - - ?" Our Fourfooted Friends. Vol. 36, No. 4 (November, 1939), pp. 3-21.

A discussion of the developments made in humane work and of the need for the extension of the work over a wider area.

Wyman, Marjorie. "Livestock Loss Prevention." Our Fourfooted Friends. Vol. 37, No. 3 (August, 1940), pp. 33-34.

An account of the educational program carried on to stimulate an interest in humane methods of transportation and slaughtering of livestock.